THE LATE BALLET COMPANY. - We understo THE LATE BALLET COMPANY.—We understood some time since that the Italian corps de bullet, that has unde such a sensition in Boston, was coming to the memposis to occupy the Opera-House on the off-nights—tropois to occupy the Opera-House on the off-nights—tropois to occupy the Opera-House on the off-nights—or of the Boston the Crocca seems to be quite the toast and prediction can take of nothing else over their coffee—gentlemen can talk of nothing else over their coffee.

Here, however, she is merely Crocca-late, and will here, however, the is merely Crocca-late, and will here. Now-York pockets and popularity unless she arrive ere St. Valentine's Def.

New York porkets and populating unness and arrive ere in Valentine's Day.

By the way, this Boston is a queer place enough, with restant Honse with formel top and streets with no boston—her exclusive common and common exclusive as—her purifusions and produgality. But chiefly is she mixing for her inconsistency in the treatment of teles. In older times she hung or burnt them—now a religible with roses.

GREAT NEWS FROM GRUNTERDOM.—If the Cincand Mill of mortality be any criterion, the porche popular is increasing in a most anti-Maithusian ratio. Properties is increasing in a most anti-Maithusian ratio projects us to be left this year to "lard the lean earth" at ionts, and that the "fat of the land" is to be kept for disaste use instead of being tried out as it was last year upon the chappers and among the mountain passes of Merico, for by the register of deaths, published in the papers, dispears that the number of hogs whose fate it was tail by their own fat this season, is 100,000 less than it was during the last.

From certain symptoms among some of the Ohio Members of Congras, it struck us, before we saw these exteriors, that the swine were on the increase in that State, or there would not be so much of the family habits displayed among their representatives in the national councils.

MAGNIFICENT PROJECT.—We learn from a citizen of Hartiord, Conn. that they have it in contemplation to the purpose of supplying the city with water, and introducing into this finely located place an immense souter poster. The route has recently been surveyed by a competent and thorough engineer, and his report is in the highest degree favorable. It is proposed that the canal shall be 100 feet in width and 12 feet in depth. This will at least of the width and 12 feet in depth. This will at course estimates, to curry more than 500,000 spindles.—The whole cost of this splendid enterprise will not exceed $70,000. [Cor. Jour. Com.

SURGICAL AND OTHER OPERATIONS WITHOUT PAIN.—A correspondent writes as follows, says the Sun, (after alluding to a number of surrical operations in Boston.)—T called on Dr. John Burdell, a dentist of Union-square; and as I had understood he was familiar with the administration and effects produced by gasseous vapor, I requested him to try and see if he could plug some of my sensitive teeth while I was under its influence. Before taking the vapor, he examined three of my decayed teeth, which were very tender indeed, the nerves being nearly exposed. After inhaling the vapor for a few minutes, he commenced on the most sensitive, removing the decay and plugging it without my seeming to feel anything more than to be conscious that he was at work on the tooth. I then took a few more inspirations for each of the others, and the results were similar to the first; the effects passing off without leaving any distinct traces behind them. Before leaving the office, a lady called with a friend, to have two teeth extracted under its influence. She inhaled it for two or three minutes, and had one of the teeth removed. She asked if it was out; being answered in the affirmative, she was highly delighted, and readily consented to have the other removed also; which was done without apparent suffering stating at the same time that she would recommend all her friends who have aching teeth, to have them extracted under the influence of the vapor."
